

Communication where everyone feels at home.

It's proven that maintaining regular contact with your tenants builds trusting relationships. Open lines of communication will create an overall better living experience, which leads to residents who want to stay, as well as recommend your property to friends and family. But there are some inherent challenges associated with sending timely and clear communication that gets noticed, and read. Below you'll learn how MessageSpring helps you overcome these communication challenges.

MessageSpring makes communication with your entire MDU a breeze.

1 Write once. Send once. Done.

Spring forward message delivery success by reaching audiences via a growing number of channels with a single post. These messages can be delivered through the MessageSpring app, SMS, email, Facebook, Instagram, Twitter and LinkedIn.

2 Remove language barriers from your entire MDU.

With over 130 languages and text-to-speech in nearly 50 languages, MessageSpring allows you to create a more inclusive environment ensuring your residents will always know what you have to say.

3 Keep residents, employees and vendors all on the same page.

With a built-in CRM you get Target Group Messaging that supports audience segmentation with both your residents defined groups and subgroups such as employees and vendors.

4 Reduce paper communication and admin time!

Gone are the days of messages on bulletin boards and notes slipped under resident doors. Now you send one message and you're done.

From emergencies and maintenance to package delivery and rent payment reminders, MessageSpring lets you send timely and important communication that your condo and rental residents want to receive. What you'll gain are happy residents who want to stay and refer your place to others.
